

100-YEAR-OLD EGG SERVED AT SPREAD FOR SPARTA WOMAN

Ancient Hen Fruit Brought from China by May Bel Thompson, a Missionary

WEST SALEM, Wis.—A Century old egg for breakfast seems almost too strong to even pass as a joke and yet guests at a breakfast given by Mrs. Walter Cook in honor of Miss May Bel Thompson, many years missionary at Nankiang, China, all had a taste of such an ancient egg and declared it might have passed anywhere as one of the current issue.

The egg is one of a very few which Miss Thompson brought from China. It had been steeped in quicklime and covered with mud and other wrappings to preserve it, following methods long known to the Chinese. Miss Thompson, who taught school here twelve years ago and roomed with Mrs. Lulu Gilliam, is making a short visit here with old friends. She has visited in Colorado Springs, Col. and New York city since her recent return from China and at both places gave her friends an opportunity to try one of the curious examples of old world food preservation methods.

Little Folks Entertained

Mrs. Martin McElwain and Mrs. Marie McElwain entertained fifteen little folks on Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 6 in honor of Margaret McElwain's fifth birthday. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Martin McElwain.

Mrs. George Middlebrook and Miss Nellie Samuel left on Thursday for Minneapolis, where they will spend the holidays.

School closed on Wednesday for a two weeks' vacation. The teachers have returned to their homes for the holidays.

Mrs. Herman Heiler and Mrs. Walter Young entertained friends at the Heiler home on Thursday afternoon. There were 21 present.

Mrs. Minnie Novak entertained at the Carl Brandt home on Thursday at a 6 o'clock dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Smith of Great Bend, Kan. About fifty relatives and friends were present.

Roll Call Completed

Melvin Michelson will become the manager of the Farmers' Co-operative Supply and Shipping association after January 1, when W. P. Miller goes to Madison.

Mr. George Hitchcock, who has been spending the past few months at Glendive, Mont., with his son Glen and family, has returned home.

The Study club will have one week vacation. The next meeting will be January 3, 1922.

Miss Olive Olson was a recent guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert Hill at Winona, Minn.

Miss Wagon Abshire arrived home from Wausau, Wis., on Friday for a two weeks' vacation with home folks.

IRISH COUNTESS IS SENTENCED TO TWO YEARS IN PRISON

DUBLIN.—Countess Georgina Markievicz, who was tried by a court martial on a charge of conspiracy to organize a seditious society, was Tuesday sentenced to two years at hard labor in prison.

The specific allegation against her was that between January 1918 and September 1920 she had plotted to organize a "flanna eireann" or Sinn Fein boy scout society. This organization has been charged with conspiracy to murder military police and with unlawful defiance.

friend up in the bathroom till he can get wife out of the way. She, poor girl, wonders why she is being banded off with husband's partner to her mother's for a visit, when she had been expecting the old lady the very next day! So she refuses to be escorted sedately home to mother, and whistles friend partner to take her to the carnival instead. Next day she returns home, having discovered, by a chance meeting at the fair, husband's duplicity in winning her away from her first sweetheart. Husband must be punished, she decides. He is. But before he is reduced to a proper spirit of repentance you will be reduced to a state bordering on exhaustion from laughing. "After Beloved Villain" is French farce at its highest peak of wit and fun.

Showing at the Majestic until Wednesday.

AT THE CASINO

A company of extraordinary strength appears in "The Untamed," a big Tom Mix feature produced by William Fox, which will be the attraction at the Casino theater tomorrow.

Pauline Starke, who has played in many of the biggest productions in the history of the motion picture art, supports Mix in the role of Kate Cumberland. She will be remembered for her glowing characterizations in such pictures as "Soldiers of Fortune," "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" with Jack Pickford, "Eyes of Youth" with Clara Kimball Young, "Shoes That Danced," "The Courage of Marge O'Donnell" and many other pictures of importance. She began her career as an extra girl with D. W. Griffith, and soon rose to star parts with the Triangle company.

AT THE STRAND

The tragedy of being neither a red man nor a white man, but hanging suspended between, the admitted equal of neither race is strikingly brought out in "The Third Woman," which is at the Strand theater tonight. However, by the strength of the leading character, Luke Mallard, a society man, success and happiness are won, and the ending of the story is not tragical.

Carlyle Blackwell takes the part of the man who is rejected as a member of the white race until the age of twenty-two when at his graduation from an eastern college he learns that his father had been married to an Indian, and that he is really of mixed blood.

IRELAND IN REVOLT

Ireland in Revolt was well received yesterday at the La Crosse theater. Capt. Edwin Weigle is to be congratulated upon so wonderful a picture, taking into consideration the many difficulties he had to overcome. In many of the pictures one can see the mob actually at their work of destruction. The mob scenes at Cork, Belfast and Lisburn are wonderful and show how the photographer had to work from windows and house tops to get the action of the mobs below. The raids, reprisals and riots are far beyond belief and the only way one can comprehend the magnitude of the destruction brought to Ireland is by seeing these motion pictures now showing at the La Crosse theater. La Crosse has the honor of being the only city outside of Chicago that has so far shown these pictures. Capt. Weigle having only returned from abroad with them about 10 days ago. The picture is the Chicago-Tribune's war photographer and has served the United States in the same capacity during the war.

AT THE RIVOLI

An appealing story of the Canadian northwest is promised in George Melford's latest production, "Behold My Wife," which will be seen at the Rivoli theater for four days commencing Wednesday. The picture was adapted from a novel by Sir Gilbert Parker.

The action centers around the incongruous marriage of Frank Armour, the younger son of an aristocratic English family, and Lili, granddaughter of an Indian chieftain, whom he meets while serving as an officer of the Hudson's Bay company in northwestern Canada. On his return to the company's trading post from a hunting expedition, Armour receives word that his fiancée in England has jilted him largely on account of his family's opposition to her. In a moment of drunken rage, Armour marries the Indian maiden and sends her back to England to humiliate his family. How, through the efforts of Frank's elder brother, she develops into a beautiful and polished young woman and how young Armour himself is regenerated forms the theme of the story.

TOM MIX

The UNTAMED

By MAX BRAND Directed by EMMETT J. FLYNN

A startling romance of three strange comrades

—A story of three untamed beings of the desert—a man, a demon horse and a devil dog. See Tom Mix in the most fascinating Western romance ever filmed, "The Untamed," from Max Brand's well-known novel.

—A story of gentlemen, bandits, daredevil feats of horsemanship, and gunplay that is unequalled. Tom Mix in "The Untamed."

—A superman, a demon horse and a devil dog—the strangest companionship ever seen. The savagery of thousands of years fought in their veins and made them superior to others of their kind. Their leader was Whistling Dan.

—Tom Mix as "Whistling Dan" is a mystery man of the Western desert. His shooting is beyond human comprehension. He shoots by instinct instead of training.

—"Whistling Dan," an untamed son of the Western ranges, is tamed only by the love of a fair-haired girl, in "The Untamed."

—Tom Mix makes a thrilling leap through a closed window ten feet to the rain-soaked ground below, in "The Untamed," a bewitching Romance of the West.

—He tasted his own blood and his eyes glared yellow like those of a wildcat in the dark. The instant of thousands of years aroused "Whistling Dan" to savagery. People knew that only a man's death would appease his fury. See Tom Mix as "Whistling Dan" in Max Brand's story, "The Untamed."

The Saskatchewan

THE Saskatchewan is the river the song in the musical comedy was about. It would be yet better known, of course, had the song been as popular as "The Banks of the Wabash" or "The Suwanee River."

Most readers know the Saskatchewan is in northwest Canada.

Two recent items of news from that neighborhood are of importance to millions throughout the world.

One is the development of a certain variety of wheat which ripens nearly two weeks earlier than any other. That opens up great tracts of country there to the growing of wheat.

For the northern limit of wheat growing is fixed by the frost date. The earlier ripening extends the wheat belt many miles northward—about 125.

The second news fact is linked to the first. It concerns the building of a railroad from the Saskatchewan to Hudson Bay.

This railroad, long planned, was nearing completion this fall, and will be finished early in the summer of 1921.

The railroad will be an outlet for the wheat to be grown in the new wheat belt. Also it will provide cheaper transportation for the wheat in the district farther south.

Anything which increases the world's wheat crop, and cheapens the cost of distributing it is vastly important. Certainly nothing more important has happened on the Saskatchewan since it was discovered in 1670.

A Woman's Place

THE war brought a large number of women permanently into business. Figures recently compiled show that there are thirty-five per cent more women in industries now than there were before the war. As they have proved efficient and in most cases are willing to work for less than men, their place in industry seems a permanent one.

There is now one woman to every nine men employed in the industries which formerly employed chiefly or exclusively men.

There are 69,000 women in such industries as iron, steel, lumber, leather, stone, clay, chemical manufacture, the manufacture of automobiles, electrical apparatus, agricultural implements, mechanical implements, optical, rubber, shipbuilding, and railroading. All these women who have gone into industry have gone out of the home.

The old cry of the anti-suffrage women "woman's place is in the home" is being taken up by the suffragists who now begin to feel that, perhaps, women have fewer homes than they used to have and that woman's place really is in the home.

A woman cannot be in an iron foundry all day and in the home, too!

Not a Loss; It's a Gain

WHILE congress wrestles with the problem of increasing its membership the French Chamber of Deputies faces an entirely different situation. It will lose members by the latest French population estimates. The war did it. The war dealt more savagely with France than with this country. War dead alone have left a great gap in population.

There are 630 Deputies, one for every 75,000 inhabitants. The next Chamber will have about 500 members. French newspapers and the nation's clearest thinkers are inclined to call a small chamber a national blessing. As one writer put it, "the 500-member chamber will produce better fruit than the larger body."

By Letter and Number

WHEN one asks: "What kind of a man is he?" and the answer is given: "He's A No. 1," the definition is clear enough. It is as plain as the nose on a man's face—he's first class in every particular, worthy of confidence and the possessor of merit.

How "A No. 1" came to be a synonym for excellence is interesting, too. A1 is a notation in Lloyd's Register, the British shipping guide, and it applies to a ship as being in first-class condition both as to the hull and to the stores aboard the vessel.

The character A is used to denote either new ships or ships that have been restored until they are as good as new. The stores of the vessels are described by the figures one or two; if "well and sufficiently found," then the figure one is used. So, in Britain, A1 indicates a high degree of excellence; over here the same thing is expressed by A No. 1.

Just how long ago the term passed into popular speech as it is at present applied, is not known, though Charles Dickens used the figure as early as 1847. A tramp painter known the world over discarded his name for "A No. 1," which he painted on every railroad station in this country.

New Metals for Man

INCREASED consumption of iron and steel is making scientists look ahead to the time when supplies of iron ore will be exhausted.

Not in this generation. Nor the next. But time will come when piles of scrap-iron in the yard of a scrap-iron dealer of today will seem like a treasure hoard.

Iron is so necessary to civilized life that it is hard for most persons to imagine how the world could get along without plenty of it. But doubtless men thought the same of copper in the stone and copper age which ended about 1800 B. C.

Already chemists are working to conserve supplies of iron for future civilizations while benefiting the present. Their experiments are based on the fact that the best known metals now in use are not those which are most abundant but are those which could most easily be got at, and utilized.

The list of most abundant metals in the earth includes some which now are unfamiliar. Such as chromium, barium, manganese, vanadium, strontium and zirconium. The abundant list does not include copper, zinc and lead.

Gold, like some of the other well-known metals, has been used since early times because primitive men found it in a nearly pure state, and no treatment other than simple mechanical skill was required to utilize it.

A promise of what may be done with various abundant metals is contained in the rapidly developing use of aluminum. Only a lifetime ago this metal was a laboratory curiosity, and a pound of it cost $400.

Thirty-five years ago the annual production in this country was only 283 pounds. Now it's 100,000,000.

Its use continues to increase as methods of producing it are developed. There's plenty. Aluminum, not iron, is the most abundant metal. There is nearly twice as much aluminum as iron in the earth waiting to be used.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Ensign Fred Beisel, U. S. N., who is home on a seven days' furlough visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Beisel, 311 Vine street, will have the pleasure of being one of the guests at the coronation of King George of England. Orders just received are to the effect that he is to be on the steamer Tennessee which is to represent United States at the celebration.

The first test well which was sunk in the marsh northeast of the city under the direction of the state railway commission shows that there is no coarse gravel, the earth being composed entirely of sand which is thought to be satisfactory for a pure water supply. It is proposed to sink five more wells in different parts of the marsh to ascertain if a satisfactory supply of water can be obtained. Experiments will be in progress during the greater part of the winter but no detailed report will be made until spring.

At its regular meeting yesterday the board of directors of the La Crosse board of trade approved the new folder advertising the city of La Crosse. The folder contains a half tone cut of La Crosse from the river front. It sets forth the advantages of location and natural resources. Business men have begun sending out the folders with their correspondence.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The project of laying a new railroad to touch or connect with Chippewa Falls, Eau Claire, La Crosse, Black River Falls and possibly Superior, is exciting the people in not distant municipalities. Superior investors are ready to put money in the scheme in a firm belief that it will pay.

An interesting prediction regarding the important future before La Crosse and other Mississippi river towns was made today by Mr. C. A. Gile of Winona. It calls attention to proposed construction of the Nicaragua canal by which it is intended to connect the Atlantic and Pacific coasts by a water route. The increased transportation facilities would make Mississippi river towns most desirable places for locating manufacturing industries as raw materials could be brought and manufactured articles taken away by steamers from Europe to Pacific ocean ports in North as well South America with going way around South America.

Members of the First Baptist church last night gave an end of the century entertainment at the church on Sixth street.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

The local branch of the Catholic Knights of Wisconsin, recently organized in this state, received its uniforms last week and on Christmas morning attended the service at St. Joseph's church in a body. There are sixty members here and each carries an insurance of $200.

A number of La Crosse representatives of the Baggage-men's Fraternity were in attendance at the State Baggage-men's ball held in Milwaukee last evening.

Sheriff Scott today removed the nineteen prisoners from the old jail to the new one. At the meeting of the county board yesterday afternoon the subject of hiring a turnkey for the new jail was the chief object of discussion. After a great deal of controversy a resolution was passed authorizing the committee on grounds and buildings to engage a person to do this work.

LONALD'S DADDY

BY RUBY DOUGLAS

"Edith—quick who is that?" Marjorie pointed at the disappearing form of a man.

"Why—Donald's daddy. Oh, Richard, do come here." Edith jumped up from the comfortable swinging hammock in which she and her friend, Marjorie, had been sitting. She ran out the front gate and after her own youngest son, who was fast galloping on her in the chase, "Richard! Richard!" she called.

Marjorie folded her hands complacently and to herself, remarked that at least there were some advantages in single blessedness.

"Donald's daddy! Well, that's definite, I'm sure. I suppose after one is married one is merely somebody's daddy or somebody's mammy or somebody's wife," she soliloquized, while her friend still gave chase to the truant son.

Marjorie had been doing settlement and social work in various parts of the country and now was taking a vacation as the guest of her college roommate. More than once during the fortnight that she had spent at this home she had seen the tall form of the man across the street. Always he had been just disappearing behind the great trees that led into the woods to the station, but always there had flashed through Marjorie's mind a vague feeling that she had seen the man before.

Edith came up the garden path quite out of breath and leading young Richard none too gently by the hand. "Oh, Marj, my dear, stay single. Romance is all very well, but—well, there is more than romance with the big R, gettin' married."

"I'll say that is, Edith," Marjorie returned, laughing. "Edith sent the young son into the house and sat down beside Marjorie. "Donald's daddy must have some other name, has he not?" Marjorie ventured after a moment.

"Oh—of course he has, but that's all we know—and the funny part of it is that he really isn't!"

"Isn't what?"

"Isn't Donald's daddy at all."

"Is there a Donald?" asked Marjorie, sitting up. "The plot thickens."

"Oh yes, there is a Donald, a duck of a Donald, five years old," Edith began. "You see, Donald's daddy had some kind of a romance in his young life once upon a time dear, and one day, five years ago, when he was on a train going out West to direct some moving pictures in his great California studio, he met a young woman who was hugging an infant from a home where there was no room and no food for it, so—well, to some place where it could be taken care of. The short of it is that the baby is Donald and the man is Donald's daddy. The young woman was a social worker and was taking the trip with the infant. Why—why—what's the matter, dear?"

"Matter enough—I'm the girl."

"Marjorie!"

"Oh—I'm not his romance—I'm just the social worker that was taking care of the baby and I thought the man looked familiar. Isn't it too weird for words, Edith?"

"Weird—it's queer."

The two girls talked the story over and finally decided to invite Donald's daddy over to dinner and let him tell the little social worker what progress he had made with his adopted son.

Edith, matron-like, was all a-quiver with the thought of the next chapter in the story. She had dinner prepared with special care; she admonished her husband not to talk too much; she had all the candles lighted in the living-room and a fire in the fireplace. "We'll have firelight and candlelight and—"

"And love-light," laughed Ned, Edith's husband.

"Not so soon," protested Marjorie. Donald's daddy explained how he had always wanted the companionship of a son and how he had never married—well, he skipped over the because. And, when, just in the re-

Pass around to the guests a bowl containing English walnuts. Also give each guest a nut cracker. When every one has a nut and a cracker, give a fixed signal, at which every one will crack the nut which has been given him. Inside of each nut is found a small piece of paper on which is written a "forfeit" and a number. The forfeits are performed in the order of the numbers, and each guest is required to do what has been allotted him.

It may be the duty of one guest to imitate the cries of the barnyard fowls. Another may be required to go before each guest in turn, introducing himself and shaking hands. Another could be asked to sing a certain song.

It is well to have one bowl of nuts for the girls and one for the boys. The forfeit papers are placed inside the walnut shells by carefully separating the two sections of the shell, taking out the meats and then placing the paper inside, closing the shell again with small dabs of glue.

Mrs. Fred Westcott
The sea was wild; waves tossed up over the deck, and the boat pitched from side to side. But the louder the waves roared and the shriller the wind shrieked the better the little Danish baby liked it.

This initiation into sea life when she was just two years old, played an important part in the future life of Mrs. Fred Westcott.

Instead of staying home while her husband made trips on his boat, she went along and studied the mechanism of the boat. Mrs. Westcott is the only woman who has a license as marine engineer.

action from the shock of losing the girl of his early romance, he had chanced upon this lovely baby apparently without a home that would ever give him adequate bringing up—he took the opportunity to have a son to educate and love. Donald had proved, thus far, to be all that he would have wished in his own child.

"And to think that you—the instrument almost of the fate that brought him to me—should happen to be right here in my own neighborhood, Miss Beacon, seems almost unreal," he said to Marjorie, as they sat before the flickering logs.

"It does seem a strange coincidence," Marjorie said. She had a warm, friendly feeling for the man who had crossed her path for the second time.

"You see we're not always just ships that pass in the night. Occasionally we pass by daylight and we see each other and—remember," he added, almost dreamily.

When Edith and Ned retired from the room, since they seemed to be none too popular, Ned remarked, "I'll say there's love-light with the firelight. Edith, what do you think?"

"I'm no matchmaker, Ned. And, besides, Marjorie does not intend to marry. She is married to her work," she says.

"So were you dear—till you got a glimpse of me."

Edith did not deign to reply further, but in a fortnight—at the end

But Mrs. Moore was doubtful, for she knew right well that every time those two boys got together there would be trouble—every single time. If it wasn't Calvin Percival who came home with a discolored eye, or a bleeding nose (or both) it was the Jones boy—Tom Jones was his full name.

Then she thought of the sheet of resolutions Calvin had just written—written without even a protest—and how he had said he would never disobey her.

"All right, Calvin Percival," she said finally, "you may go, but mind, now, I don't want you to get into any trouble. If you do I'll have to send you to bed tonight without your supper. Remember your resolutions."

But before she had finished Calvin had dived for the kitchen door and shouted out to Tom to wait a minute. Then he scooted through the house searching for his outer clothing which he found in various places. Returning to the kitchen he asked his mother if she would give him a couple of potatoes. Mrs. Moore, wiping the dough from her hands, got three big ones and handed them to Calvin, and he, with a polite—very polite—"Thank you," which surprised Mrs. Moore, tore madly out the kitchen door, slammed it shut after him, and with a wild yell jumped down the snow covered back porch steps into the yard.

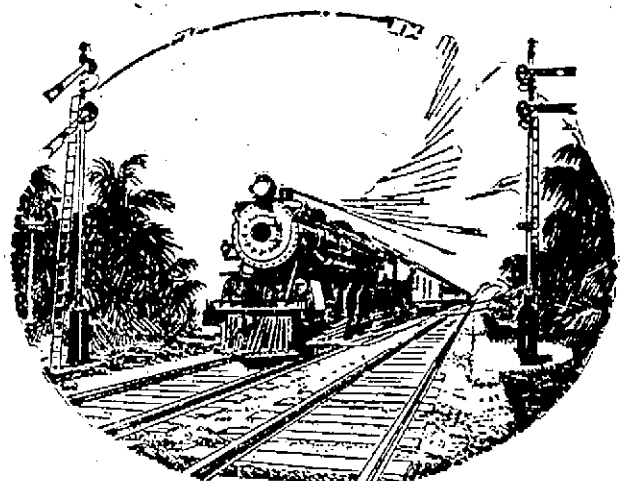

Mrs. Moore, watching the flying form of her son through the kitchen door window, sighed deeply, shook her head and turned to her baking. Calvin Percival was the worry of her life.

Maybe, she thought, she would have done better to refuse to allow Calvin to go to the cave.

But then surely nothing serious would come of letting him play with that Jones boy, for hadn't he said in his resolutions that he would obey what she told him, and hadn't she said emphatically that he should not get into any trouble?

SOCIALISTS SCORE REFUSAL OF WILSON TO PARDON DEBS

Start Movement for Release of all Political Prisoners

CHICAGO, Ill.—Agitation for the release of all political prisoners and restoration of political liberty "until the last vestige of Wilsonianism is crushed" was promised in a statement from socialist party headquarters here Monday, following the president's refusal to pardon Eugene V. Debs at Christmas.

"We refuse to believe," the statement says, "that President Wilson, who has pardoned murderers, bank robbers, burglars, adulterers of good, German spies, dope dealers, bank wreckers and other choice criminals, speaks for the American people when he continues to keep in prison a political opponent."

"The presidential Christmas pardons granted to two murderers and one dope dealer, together with the refusal to grant a pardon to Eugene V. Debs and other political prisoners, was probably meant as a blow in the face to the socialists and other elements that have been demanding unconditional release of men and women in jail and under conviction for the expression of their opinions."

The executive is quoted as having said that Debs is an "unrepentant prisoner" and that to pardon him would be a breach of faith with the American boys who went to France.

"The president's assumption of the right to speak for all the American people was tested two months ago, and unless he has not read the election returns, he knows what his fellow citizens think of that assumption."

"The principles involved are simple. Have the American people the right to express their honest opinions on any subject, political, economic, social, or have they not? If they have, then it is a crime against the American people to send them and women to prison for the expression of their opinions."

"For twenty years now modern psychology has been affirming that man is naturally and incurably religious," said Rev. C. C. Rowison in a sermon on "Incarnation" at the First Congregational church, Sunday. "That is to say, it is a matter of scientific evidence that in every man, and in every race of men, God seeks a conscious incarnation of Himself."

"But in the vast majority of men, this free expression of divinity is so held back by tradition and custom and the hard grind of earthly demands, that his incarnation is not large and free and evident."

"The various religions of the world testify to the universal effort of God to incarnate Himself. In the Hebrew race He found a people prepared in a peculiar sense for this incarnation. In Jesus of Nazareth we find an ever fresh expression of the divine which ought to be incarnate in all men."

Fine or Imprisonment Penalty for Doing Business Without State Permit

MADISON, Wis.—Laxity of a considerable number of beauty parlor operators and managers to renew their state licenses may result in closing the parlors after January 1 unless sooner renewed. The law empowers the state board of health to revoke any license if it is not renewed by that date.

So far 325 out of 225 licensed operators, and 160 out of 260 managers of beauty parlors have renewed for 1921.

The penalty for doing beauty parlor work without a license is a fine ranging from $10 to $100, or imprisonment in the county jail for from ten to 90 days, or both.

NEW YORK.—Officers of the New York Towboat Exchange and Harbor Workers' union leaders Tuesday predicted a harbor strike affecting several thousand men on January 1, unless some unforseen working agreement can be reached.

90 Days' Milk Increase Pays for JAMES Drinking Cups

It's All Net Profit, After That

JAMES Drinking Cups save labor—especially the mean job of chopping ice in the trough and turning out the herd for water in zero weather. They prevent disease spreading in the herd—save fuel expense and in every way in every dairy barn are worth many times their cost. But that's not half. Their use actually increases the milk yield of every cow. They pay for themselves in one season. After that, the extra yield is clear, net profit. In the big dairy states, 3 1/2 billion pounds of milk will be wasted this year because dairies fail to produce it. That's a loss of about One Hundred and Eight Million Dollars. It will be lost because of improper watering. That is the reason why you should investigate

JAMES DRINKING CUPS

You can get your share of that 108 Million Dollars! You can get your share of that lost milk and those lost dollars out of water! By installing JAMES Drinking Cups—and letting your cows have all the water they want—when they want it—day and night.

If your cows are in the barn 200 or more days a year—JAMES Drinking Cups will increase your herd's milk yield from 200 to 400 pounds per cow. You can actually pay for them in a short time with the milk that you couldn't get without them. That's why dairymen like—

John Brennan, Lake Geneva, Wis. Fred Sandeen, Hebron, Ill. Harry Hest, Hebron, Ill.
Walter Bingham, Henry Mickle, Herman Votta, Frank Votta are using JAMES Drinking Cups. These cups are made by James Manufacturing Company, Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin, and recommended and sold by us.

Resolutions Demand Peace With Russia With Strike as Alternative

LONDON.—Under the tolerant but watchful eyes of the English police the third anniversary of the Russian Soviet republic was commemorated in London and some provincial centers by communist meetings, at which cheers were raised for Lenin and the social revolution.

The biggest demonstration was held at the Albert hall, in London, under the auspices of the "Hands off Russia" committee and the speakers included the former Colonel C. L. Malone, member of parliament, and Cathal O'Shannon, of the Irish Communist Party.

One resolution called upon the Council of Action to send an ultimatum to the government demanding peace with Russia by a certain date; failing which, there would be a national strike.

One of Malone's statements was to the effect that Soviet Russia had raised 4,000,000 rubles for the Star of Silesia, but Cathal O'Shannon later said this money had not been received in Ireland.

All the speakers said they wanted a revolution at the earliest possible moment, but they admitted that "the British workers were the greatest obstacles to revolution."

ARMY OF AGENTS DESCEND UPON WIDE OPEN TOWN

but not a shot was fired during the first hour of operations.

The raid followed a wild night at Hurley, during which liquor had been sold at bargain rates, ranging from 25 cents for moonshine whiskey to 75 cents for well-known brands. Among the arrests were lumberjacks too paralyzed from liquor to realize what was happening.

The town of Hurley is said to be one of the wide open spots in the north woods. It is a logging camp and said to be the seat of extensive moonshining operations.

It was in the Hurley neighborhood that John Chippusio, an alleged liquor runner, was killed last fall by Leo J. Grove, prohibition agent for upper Michigan, whom the Wisconsin authorities now are seeking to extradite for trial. Grove made the complaint that caused Major Dalrymple, former prohibition enforcement agent for the central states, to lead his expedition to Iron River.

Land's Ordered Raid

The expedition was ordered at the instance of Federal Judge K. M. Landis after reports reached him that the alleged moonshiners had threatened to shoot any prohibition raiders who put in an appearance.

More than 100 places, it is reported, make or sell whiskey and wine. Thirty-eight of them are saloons and the raiding party carried a warrant for the arrest of the proprietor of every one of these places. Other places said to be selling liquor were poolrooms, private stills and back bar shops.

Plans Kept Secret

Preparations are said to have been going on for several days, but no indication of the expedition was given out by Frank R. Richardson, supervising prohibition agent for the central states. Every detail was worked out in advance in order to avoid any repetition of the opposition encountered by Major A. V. Dalrymple, then prohibition enforcement director, at the time of the "rumble" at Iron River, Michigan.

Warrants Issued in La Crosse

The warrants were issued by Judge Landis during his recent session of court at La Crosse, Wis., when he held court on the bench recently vacated by the death of the judge assigned there.

News of the Chicago expedition drew expressions of surprise from Judge Landis.

"I merely issued search warrants for a number of places charged with selling whiskey," he said. "While holding court at La Crosse, application was made for the warrants and they were issued."

Anti-Dry Feeling Strong

The logging camp town of Hurley has been the center of anti-prohibition feeling for several months. The town is inhabited mainly by lumberjacks, many of whom are foreigners. The smoldering resentment toward prohibition broke into flame in a pitched battle here on October 5, when operators from prohibition headquarters in Chicago encountered bootleggers who lost contraband worth estimated to be worth $25,000. One man was killed in the fight and another was seriously wounded.

Since that time, it is said, prohibition agents have carefully avoided Hurley, waiting until complete preparations could be made to make a raid in force.

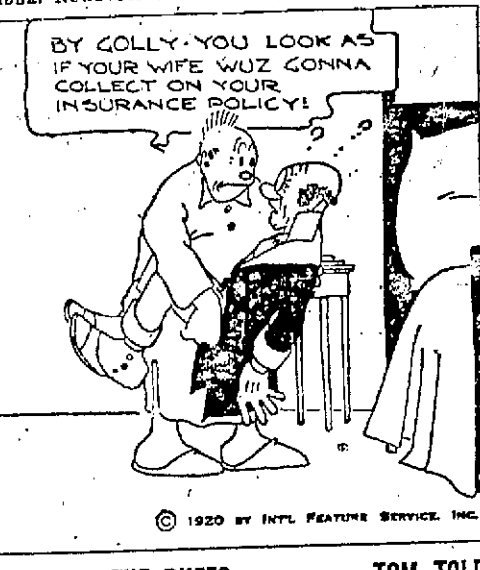

The whole district has been regarded as a law defying community. Reports are that dance halls, saloons, gambling shops, and bootleg joints flourish practically in the open, each one selling any kind of liquor obtainable from moonshine whiskey to Italian wine.

Swore Vengeance

Opposition to any encroachment from outside took definite form after the ambush in October. Friends of John Chippusio, the slain man, and a saloonkeeper of Hurley, organized and sent out a deft which said that the first prohibition agent to show himself in Hurley would be shot. They swore, it was said, to keep Hurley "a man's town for real men."

Home brewing has become a prominent industry, according to residents of the town, which boasts little more than 6,000 people. Kentuckians driven from the hills of their own state, are said to have migrated to this district and set their stills in operation and prohibition agents say there has been no perceptible reduction in liquor consumption since prohibition became effective.

Scouts at Work

The expedition, headed by Joseph Callahan, chief of staff to Major A. V. Dalrymple on his campaign against the "rumble" at Iron River, Mich., last winter, left Chicago late Monday and arrived in Hurley Tuesday morning.

"Conditions have been very bad in Hurley for some time," Mr. Richardson said. "We were unable to do anything in the usual way and received no co-operation from local authorities. We decided to send an armed force into the district and clean it up. The party went heavily armed, although we are not looking for trouble. If it comes, however, we want to be prepared for it."

Scouts have been operating in Hurley for several weeks, according to Mr. Richardson, and evidence was collected upon which application was made for search warrants.

Federal agents from four states were called into Chicago to supplement the twenty men assigned from this office.

Movie Men on Deck

There was more of the picturesque than the sensational in the "invasion" although the "movie" machines clicked merrily every time a federal agent drew a revolver or a keg of liquor rolled into the street. A number of newspaper reporters also accompanied the invaders.

The crowd that followed the agents down Silver street grew in a few minutes to more than 200 persons but there was no demonstration, no audible hints of violent opposition to the raid, in fact the crowd seemed more disposed to make it the occasion for a holiday.

Mayor Lennon is ill in bed and he refused to issue a statement regarding conditions that preceded the advent of the federal agents, but promised an announcement later.

Deny Extradition Plea

LANSING, Mich.—Gov. Albert E. Stepper Tuesday denied the request of Wisconsin authorities for the extradition to prohibition, Wis., of Leo J. Grove, chief prohibition enforcement officer for upper Michigan and two of his assistants, indicated in Iron County on a charge of murdering John A. Chippusio, alleged liquor runner.

Obituary

EDWARD N. OSBORNE, vice president of the Osborn-McMillan Elevator company, was born in the home of his parents, Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Osborne, who was 70 years old and a pioneer Minneapolis businessman, died in Hill Crest hospital.

He first entered the grain business in La Minnecola in 1887 and four years later, with J. D. McMillan, established the present company. He was one of the first members of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Osborne belonged to the Minneapolis, Woodliff, Lafayette and Minneapolis clubs.

At the funeral services, the oldest employees of the Osborn-McMillan company acted as pallbearers. Dr. H. P. Dewey conducted the service.

Mr. Osborne was born in New York state, his father died when the son was 1 year old. Three years later his mother removed with her four children to La Crosse, Wis., where Mr. Osborne spent his boyhood and where also he formed the friendship with J. D. McMillan, which developed into a life-long business association.

After the war he came to La Crosse, where he was in the office of La Crosse and remained there until they were ready to enter business for themselves. They then started the Osborn-McMillan company, which at first operated line elevators on the Minneapolis, St. Paul & South St. Louis railroad. They later branched out into the Empire Elevator company on the Milwaukee line, and the Northern Elevator company.

A brother, W. C. Osborne, of Winter Park, Minn., and a sister, Mrs. E. E. Edwards, also of Winter Park, survive Mr. Osborne. Mrs. Osborne died last fall. The third brother, Richard E. Osborne, died about two years ago. Two sons also survive, Willis W. Osborne, a student at Yale, and Edward N. Osborne, at home in La Crosse. Mr. Osborne was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Crosby, former residents of this city.

Word has been received by friends in this city of the death in San Antonio, Texas, of Clark Crosby, aged 20 years, after an illness of several months. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Crosby, former residents of this city.

Mrs. JESSIE BUTSCH

Funeral services of the late Mrs. Jessie Butsch, who passed away at her home Christmas night, will be held Wednesday afternoon, December 23rd, at her home, 620 Gould street, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. J. H. Benson officiating. Burial will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

Predicts a Scourge

Dr. L. Haden Guest, of London, who has been investigating conditions in Russia, reports to the Lancet (London) that the whole of that country has been swept by typhus and relapsing fever, and that all indications point unmistakably to a formidable epidemic in the coming winter. Cholera also has made its appearance and smallpox is widely prevalent.

SEES COAL IMPROVEMENT

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—The last four years of "rather harsh experience" with the coal situation contain some signs for the future, A. G. Culheim of the American Railway association, said Tuesday before the American Economic association. He reviewed the industry before, during and after the war and drew the conclusion that the bituminous mining industry was developed "far beyond" the present or immediate future demands of trade.

TO WITHDRAW SUIT

NEW YORK.—An agreement whereby the $150,000,000 suit brought against William Rockefeller and other directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad by stockholders would be withdrawn on payment of $2,000,000, was reported to have been reached at conference here Tuesday.

The winter term of the Tri-State Keefe Business College will begin Jan. 3, 1921. Special advantages are offered to those who register before that date. Call, write or phone for full information. Another testimonial: Just a few lines to express my appreciation of what your college has done for me. I started at your school with the equivalent of a seventh grade education. After completing your course I am enabled to hold down a $140 position in the office of a railroad company, and am right in the line of advancement. Surely there never was a better proposition than a good business education for a young man or woman with limited time and means, and the Tri-State Keefe Business is the place to get it right as a good position is always thrown in. ## MUTT AND JEFF

Mutt and Jeff, immortalized in the comic strips of the daily newspapers, will appear in the flesh at the La Crosse Theater, two days and Saturday, Dec. 31 and Jan. 1. This year's offering is said to be one of the brightest shows that will be seen here this season. Excellent music, clever comedy and peppy dancing combine to make this attraction a source of amusement and delight to any audience. Gus Hill has outdone himself in his latest cartoon creation "Mutt and Jeff at the Races," which is the title of this season's offering. Shaded of old Mutt and Jeff are visible in the new vehicle. The same old arguments, but with a set of new songs, catchy melodies and late jokes, resplendent scenic effects and gorgeous costuming that will send this season's offering far above its predecessors. A large and capable company of well known musical comedy players will be seen in the leading roles, in addition to a fine chorus who have looks and good voices.

A Wall of Coal

Last year we dug 700,000,000 tons of coal. If this quantity, representing the output of a single twelvemonth, were used as construction material it would build a wall as huge as the Great Wall of China around every boundary of the United States, from Maine to Vancouver, down the Pacific to San Diego, thence eastward following the Mexican border, and by way of Florida to the northeast corner of Maine again.

Appealed the Case

Henrietta loved to go to church. One Sunday morning while she was making preparations to go, an accident befell her only clean dress and mother told her she would have to remain at home. During the loud prayer her mother heard childish footfalls coming up the aisle and in a moment Henrietta slipped into the pew wearing her soiled everyday frock.

On the way home the mother asked her why she had come to church after she had been forbidden to do so, and the child replied, "Well, mother, you're always told me to take all my troubles to God, so after you started for church I went to my room and asked God what He would do if He were in my place, and He said to me: 'Henrietta, you go—Judge.'"

BOLSHEVISM NOR MONARCHISM HAS CHANCE IN CHINA

People Accustomed to Republic-can Government Declares
Official

Peking.—Neither bolshevism nor monarchism has a chance in China today, in the opinion of Dr. Philip Yuan, assistant under-secretary in the foreign office, unofficially expressed to the Associated Press. Dr. Yuan, who is a student of international law, makes "erroneous reports and inspired statements of a damaging nature" which have been circulating recently both in China and abroad and which not only mislead public opinion but have a serious repercussion on trade.

The reports which are most persistent are precisely those which are most ill-founded. One is that a monarchist restoration has actually occurred or is imminent; another that the country not only offers an attractive field for bolshevism but that an insidious and far-reaching campaign of propaganda is actually being waged which may engulf the nation.

Each reports discloses singular features of existing conditions and of the whole trend of Chinese thought. The factors which led to the abdication of the Manchukuo dynasty nearly a decade ago are not only operative today, but have been made a hundred-fold more powerful by natural development and by the march of events throughout the world. It may be said generally that the people at large are so completely accustomed to the republican idea that the conception of a hereditary ruler seems to belong to a remote past.

As for bolshevism, China is probably the last country in the world that need fear what is the badge of other nations. Not only is the land all divided and tightly held in small parcels by tiny deers among millions of cultivators, who comprise seven-tenths of the population, but capitalism in the European sense is virtually absent. Chinese society, with its ancient collectivist structure, indeed offers such a serious challenge to Marxist communism that the practice of the latter seems both retrograde and elementary compared with bolshevism.

Along an open and frontier thousands of miles in length, and the continued presence of large Chinese communities in Russian towns—when all other foreigners have disappeared—tend to prove that the Chinese are immune and alone of all nations can hold their own in competition with sovietism.

EASTMAN SLAIN BY OLD COMRADES IS BELIEF OF POLICE

NEW YORK. — The mystery surrounding the murder of "Monk" Eastman, former notorious gangster who was supposed to have "gone straight" after being decorated for heroism on the battlefields of France, was partly lifted with an announcement by police that he was slain in a gang fight on his old East Side stamping grounds last Sunday. The police claimed they had trailed his murderer and expected to make an early arrest.

Assistant District Attorney Hennis declared it was established that "Monk" was shot to death in a running fight. The police have reason to believe, they said, that some of Monk's old pals, who had turned against him, had cornered him in the cafe.

The police investigation has disclosed it was said that "Monk" recently had not been living "on the square" as he had promised Governor Smith when his citizenship rights were restored after the world war.

PARIS.—President Millerand, despite the earnest contrary advice of Madame Millerand, is reported to have ordered an airplane limousine for the purpose of making officials visits to foreign capitals and cities in the provinces.

Should the report prove to be founded it will mean a departure in the mode of traveling of Presidents in France and the permanent side-rucking of the Presidential train. A regular squadron will have to be provided for the Presidential suite and the 50 or so journalists who accompany the President on all his trips from Paris.

Some newspapers called the President's attention to the fact that a

GENERAL PUBLIC INVITED TO ATTEND BLAINE INAUGURAL

Record Crowd Expected to Witness Ceremonies of Induction at Madison

MADISON, Wis.—Details of the plans for the inauguration next Monday were practically completed at a meeting of the general committee Monday afternoon. A general invitation to the public has been issued by the committee and it is expected that the largest number that has ever attended an inauguration will be present.

The oath of office to Governor-elect John J. Blaine and his official associates will be administered by Chief Justice R. G. Siebecker in the first floor of the capital rotunda at 12 o'clock noon.

The newly elected officials will receive informally in their respective offices in the capitol from 3 to 5 o'clock.

At 8:30 in the evening the inaugural ball, informal, will be held in the capitol rotunda, preceded by a general reception in the executive chambers.

At the ceremonies Monday noon, General Orlando Holway will escort William R. Bagley, master of ceremonies. Mayor I. M. Kittleson will escort Rev. W. J. McKay. President Birge will escort Chief Justice R. G. Siebecker. Governor Philipp will escort Governor-elect John J. Blaine. Lieutenant Governor E. F. Dethmar will escort Lieutenant Governor-elect George F. Corning. Merfin Hall will escort Secretary of State-elect Elmer S. Hall. H. L. Butley will escort State Treasurer Henry Johnson. Former Attorney General Frank L. Gilbert will escort State Superintendent C. P. Carr. Frank W. Hall will escort Justice Kervin; Judge E. Ray Stevens will escort Justice A. J. Vinje; Judge A. C. Hoppman will escort Justice M. E. Rosenberg; Judge Zimmerman will escort Justice Eschweiler; R. B. Smith will escort Justice W. C. Owen, and Ralph W. Jackman will escort Justice Burr W. Jones.

At the noon ceremonies the program will be opened by the singing of America. This will be followed by invocation by Rev. W. J. McKay. Chief Justice R. G. Siebecker will then deliver a short address of fifteen minutes, which will be followed by the administration of the oaths. At the conclusion of the oaths the flag will be dropped and the audience will sing The Star Spangled Banner. The official procession will then return to the executive office.

America will be sung by a special choir which will be stationed in the south balcony of the capitol above the inaugural stage. There will be band and instrumental music at the afternoon reception.

Don't Overlook Little Things

The young fellow who thinks that little things are not worth bothering about stands a slim chance of ever having any big things to look after. Big things grow from little things. The tallest oak was once an acorn.

PERFECTION OF MODERN ART

The young lady looked before her with entranced gaze. She looked lovingly on the purple sun as it arose in the west.

Her eyes lingered appreciatively on the bright green sky, with patches of red and orange, stretched across its spacious breadth.

Clasping her hands with joy, she gazed at the flimsy, odd-looking clouds of yellow, splashed across the heavens. Several fishes were flying in the sky, while birds could be seen in the waters below, swimming and drinking.

Then her eyes turned toward where a few ocean liners sped across the horizon, with sails unfurled; a fisherman's ensign, and the fisher outside cleaning some fish, seated on a one-legged stool in a patch of red grass.

"Wonderful!" cried the young lady. "This is really the prettiest picture I have ever painted."—London Advertiser.

WANTED ONLY MINOR CHANGE
Ten p. m. There was lot to do at the office, and despite the lateness of the hour, the staff still at work.

The head of the firm looked sternly at the young man over his gold-rimmed glasses. Then:

"So you've a complaint to make, have you?" he asked fiercely.

"Not exactly a complaint, sir," said the other, "but there's just one little matter about which I should like to speak to you."

"I gave you more money the other day," growled the chief. "What's it you want this time? Shorter hours—eh?"

"Oh, no—no sir! I do not feel it incumbent on me, I assure you, in any way to tamper with our present quite excellent chronological system. For my part, I am perfectly content that the hours should remain their present length. All I wish is—er—fewer of them as applied to my daily period of work."—Houston Post.

AMERICAN EXPLORER PENETRATES WILDS OF SOUTH AMERICA

Will Soon Leave Again on Expedition Into Interior of Egypt

PHILADELPHIA—Despite the terrors through which he passed while journeying through the wilds of South America, Dr. Alexander Hamilton Rice, explorer, plans soon to leave for Egypt in an endeavor to locate a certain species of goat which is invaluable in medical research work.

He expressed this intention in an address on South America before the Geographical Society here.

Dr. Rice said his trip through South America took him up the Rio Negro, the largest tributary of the Amazon, through a natural canal more than 200 miles long connecting with the Orinoco, into hitherto unexplored portions of Brazil.

It was here that he came in actual contact with Guaharibos, a virtually unknown tribe of Caenibol Indians, who for seventeen days pursued his party in an effort to cut off their return.

The attack occurred in a wild spot along the banks of the Orinoco, where Rice had made camp the night before. Two of his Indian guides had gone up the river in a canoe to test the depth of the water, when they saw something moving along the banks.

Looking closer, they perceived the forms of Indians closing in on the camp, and hastily turning about, hurried back to warn the remainder of the party.

"A few moments after the guides' return," Dr. Rice said, "the entire bank was literally lined with wildly shrieking and gesticulating figures brandishing bows about seven feet high, with arrows six feet long. Just opposite me I saw one huge massive creature, evidently the chief or leader, who was shouting and frowning at the mouth and making motions that apparently meant to express anticipation of a hearty meal that night. He was neither negro nor Indian and he had black hair on his upper lip—a thing I have never seen on an Indian.

"We tried talking to them in every language and dialect at our command. We laid hatchets, knives and fishes on the rocks in an attempt to pacify them, but they apparently had no idea what they were for, and there was no showing the fact they intended to fight."

"Finally when one of their arrows landed just at my feet, I decided it was time to do something, and we fired the Winchester rifle and Parker shotgun, our only weapons, over their heads. That frightened them for the moment, and gave us time to get our things packed together and a start down the river. Shortly afterward, darkness descended, and all night long we could hear their blood-curdling screams as they kept at our heels.

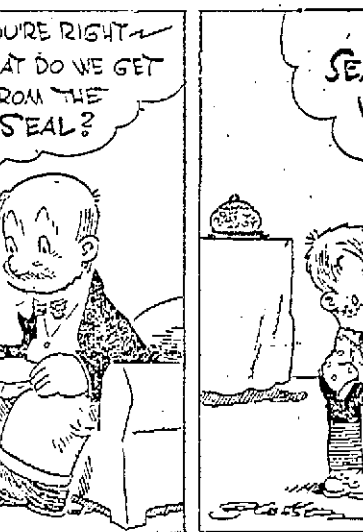

"When morning broke," he went on, "a thick mist covered the entire river, and it was this that gave us our chance to escape. When we finally reached deep water we knew we were safe, for the Guaharibos do not use bows or arrows, and it was too deep for them to wade."

RICH MUSSEL MUD
Along the shores of Prince Edward Island there is to be found extensive deposits of mussel mud, so called locally being organic remains of countless generations of oysters, mussels, clams and other shell fish. The shells, usually more or less intact, are found embedded in dense deposits of a mud-like substance, and this combination is a fertilizer of high value and potency. It supplies lime and organic matter besides small quantities of phosphates and alkalis. An ordinary dressing of it has a very marked beneficial effect on the poor and most exhausted soils. The shells decay slowly year by year, throwing off deposits around Prince Edward Island varying from 3 feet to 25 feet in depth. They are taken up by dredging machines, worked from rafts in summer or from the ice in winter.

STOCK MARKET WEAKENS

Break in Early Trading Extended to Other Issues. Bank Strong.
NEW YORK—Tuesday's early break in the stock market extended to various parts of the list excepting the bonds, there additions to Monday's rally were led by Reading, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central and the Harriman and Hill issues. Baldwin locomotive, the Auto Oil and several of the food and tobacco shares also were exempt from pressure. Crucible and Atlantic Gulf rallied from their initial depression but failed to hold. American Woolen, Industrial Alcohol, Famous Players and American Writing Paper preferred continued to weaken, and the copper and tin further ground. There was a better demand for call money which opened at 7 per cent but exchange on London eased.

The stock market showed no very definite trend at the opening of the session, but became unsettled within the first half hour. Crucible Steel and Atlantic Gulf at declines of 4 1/2 and 2 1/2 points respectively, were at lowest quotations of the year. Others also were heavy. Mexican Petroleum losing two points and Pan-American Petroleum one point. Equipments and steel fell back. International Harvester forcing two points. Anaconda Copper, on which dividend action is to be taken today, opened unchanged but American Smelting, International Harvester forcing two points. Anaconda Copper, on which dividend action is to be taken today, opened unchanged but American Smelting, International Harvester forcing two points. Anaconda Copper, on which dividend action is to be taken today, opened unchanged but American Smelting, International Harvester forcing two points.

Price improvements became more confusing later when the firmness of the market was neutralized by more extensive reactions in equipments, food issues and utilities. The close was heavy.

WHEAT GOES LOWER
Drop in Cotton and Lack of Export Demand Contribute to Market Weakness.
CHICAGO, Ill.—Wheat declined in value Tuesday as a result of selling on the part of houses with western connections. The fact that cotton had fallen to new low record prices for the crop counted as a bearish factor, and so, too, did lack of evidence of any export demand. The weather, too, was a handicap on the bulls. Opening quotations which varied from unchanged figures to 1c lower, with a few exceptions, followed by a moderate downturn all around.

Considerable wheat export business was noted later and large export sales of rye, but the wheat market nevertheless failed to develop strength. The close was unchanged to 1/2c lower, followed by a moderate downturn all around.

Corn weakened with wheat. After opening unchanged to 1/2c lower, it followed May 73 1/2 to 73 3/4 the market underwent a slight further sag. Later the market hardened owing to settlement of a small amount of corn. The close was nervous at the net lower to the advance with May 73 1/2 to 73 3/4.

Oats were governed by the action of other grains, standing unaltered to the lower, May 48 1/2 to 48 3/4 and showing subsequent additional weakness.

Repression of the hog and cereal markets pulled down provisions.

THE SLATE AND THE SLATE PENCIL

Despite the fact that the use of the slate and slate pencil has been given a black eye from a sanitary standpoint, there are many of them still in use. Ordinary roofing slate does not answer the purpose of school room use, but the latter is a much finer grade.

In Europe slate pencils are usually made by hand, but in this country they are turned out by machinery. There is in Pennsylvania a quarry famous for the fine quality of its slate, which yields many millions of pencils annually. The rough material is first sawed into suitable pieces and then each piece is cut to standard length 5 1/2 inches.

The machinery produces the pencils in the form of cylindrical rods of that length, which are pointed on one end by boys, who handle them by twos and threes with great dexterity and rapidity.

FISH CHANGE CHARACTERISTICS
The plaice which is a common fish in the European waters has undergone some remarkable changes since the war, and scientists are endeavoring to explain it. It is stated that the North sea plaice are different in size from those taken on the same grounds before the war, since when large areas have been enclosed by mines. In the southern part of the North sea the largest plaice captured are larger and good-sized fish more common, while on some grounds where before the war small plaice were common there are now no small specimens to be found. Danish investigations have shown a difference in the opposite direction, the size of the plaice on their shores has definitely decreased since the war began. In other words, fish of a given size are older than formerly. The object of the research vessel's second cruise was to transplant small plaice from the Continental shallows to the Deger Bank. It has been found that plaice thus moved grow at least twice as much in length as they would have done if left on their home ground, and that there is an increase of weight of three and one-half times.

PEASANTS BELIEVE SPRING HOLY

Alpine peasants in Switzerland regard this spring, located near Berne, as holy. After the big tree had attained its growth, peasants one day noticed water trickling from a crevice in the bark. They bored a hole and cool pure water spouted forth. It has flowed constantly for years.

DEFENSIVE ABILITY SEEN IN OHIO STATE FOOTBALL MACHINE

Hoge Workman Known to be Best Forward Passer in the Middle West

WILCE TO HAVE GOOD ARRAY OF SUBSTITUTES FOR GAME

Captain Huffman Dependable
as a Line Opener

COLUMBUS, Ohio. — Ohio State University's football team which plays the University of California eleven at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's day, while famed as a last minute finisher and great forward passing aggregation also has plenty of defensive strength and ability to present a straight football offensive in which line plunges and off tackle dashes predominate.

The straight football attack centers around Pete Stuechomb, All Western Conference halfback, who hucks the line despite his weight of only 155 pounds, or circles the ends for long gains. Stuechomb was called the "dozing line plunger" in the Western Conference, for, while a heavier man would plow into the line, he goes in sideways and twists through.

Next to Stuechomb, Willaman, the 205 pound fullback, probably is the greatest aid to his team's straight football offensive. Willaman was hurt in one of the early games and missed several of the championship contests. Opposition coaches concede that with Willaman in the lineup Ohio State would not had so many close calls. Willaman is a powerful line plunger. In addition he is rangy on the defensive.

Workman Best Passer

Hoge Workman, at quarter, is the best forward passer in the middle west and an excellent kicker. His punts average 50 yards and he is a dependable goal kicker. The Ohio State aerial attack centers around Workman.

Blair and Henderson, who alternate at the other half back position, while not so strong offensively as Stuechomb, form splendid interference. On many plays Stuechomb trades positions with them, so that they do not carry the ball nearly so much as does Stuechomb. Both are good on the defense.

At end Myers is a dependable tackler and a sure receiver of passes. On the other end, Slyker and Noel Workman alternate and both have shown themselves steady players. Workman is adept at receiving his brother's forward passes and Slyker while not so good at this angle of the game, excels in general defensive work.

Captain Huffman, a tackle, is a power at opening holes or blocking plunges. A hard working, steady player, he ranges from one side of the line to the other on the defense so that he gets in every play. Spiers, at the other tackle, proves a good running mate for the team's captain while Trot and J. Taylor, the guards, are able to give the tackles any help they may need, for Nemcek at center needs assistance from no one.

Coach Wilce also has a good array of substitutes. C. Taylor, particularly, being virtually of easily called.

Taylor took Willaman's place at full back when the latter was hurt, and while not quite the equal of Willaman, he held down the position with credit.

MAKES OWN LINIMENT

COLUMBUS, — "Doc" Gurney, trainer of the Ohio State eleven, took five bottles of liniment—his own concoction—with him to California. He thinks even the smell of the stuff will make the boys feel at home while on foreign soil.

ATHLETIC UNION PLANNED INCLUDES BADGER SCHOOLS

Eight Colleges to be Members of Proposed Midwestern Athletic Union

CEDAR RAPIDS Ia. — Squabbles over eligibility rules and schedule making are the only possible disagreeable things that may occur at the first meeting of the representatives of the eight colleges in the proposed new midwestern athletic union that is to be held in Chicago, on Dec. 30.

Wabash, Lawrence, De Pauw, Beloit, Coe, Carleton, Cornell and Knox are the schools asked to have delegates at next Wednesday's conference.

As far as can be ascertained, this is the first time the larger colleges of this section have shown any disposition to get together on any sort of an athletic union — though talk of forming a new midwestern conference has been running ripe in college athletic circles for the last five or six years.

If the eight schools invited are able to agree on a constitution and formulate any kind of a stable organization, it should be an athletic body that will rate second in importance to the Big Ten.

The colleges that will have representatives at Wednesday's meeting represent the leading schools in the five state college conferences—organizations that are experiencing progress in the inverse order at the present time. Of the eight schools that have been invited to take part two are from Indiana, one from Illinois, two from Wisconsin, one from Minnesota, and two from Iowa.

TRIBUNE BOWLING LEAGUE

In the events of the Tribune bowling league at the Lotus alleys Monday afternoon, the Elzevirs took three straight from the Cheltenham. Bill Kiefer was high total man for the winners of the match, hitting the pins for a gross total of 485. Farrand, linotype operator on the night shift, totaled 446.

Although the sheets on which the scores of the Louies and Dodies were recorded were misplaced, it is safe to announce that the latter was victorious in two out of three games. Moosbrugger, of the Dodies, and Wais, of the Louies, are collected as being the individual high score rollers.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS MAY BE CHANGED BY RESEARCH SOCIETY

Intercollegiate Athletic Association to Discuss Proposed Changes in Football

CHICAGO, Ill. — Conferences of athletic officials of various middle west, eastern and southern institutions, in session here this week, may change the tenor of intercollegiate athletics next year. First meetings will be held today by the Athletic Research Society.

On Wednesday the Intercollegiate Athletic Association will discuss proposed changes in football rules. The elimination of the goal kick after touchdowns and the suppression of the forward pass have been talked of. Barring of distance penalties within ten yards of the goal line, except for intentional roughness sufficient to put a player out of the game has also been suggested.

Reports of athletic committees and the subject of the national track meet now in the hands of the executive committee, will be considered Wednesday.

The annual session of college gymnasium directors is scheduled for Thursday.

The idea of community creameries originated in New York about 1864.
